

Survey: Help Make Legistar Great Again

Legistar, the online tracking system for City Council bills, is not very good.

It used to be better as recently as the summer of 2006, when the Council President's office still kept a record of which members voted for which bills. And it could be really great, if Council wanted it to be. All over the country, local and state legislatures are working to bring the legislative process out of the shadows, and make it easier for non-experts to follow the action.

Philadelphia 3.0 wants to know which of the following features you think would do the most to improve Legistar, and make it easier for you to participate in the legislative process. Take the survey, and sign up to stay in the loop on this campaign.
